

A bit about me....

I believe in the power of human connection and love working with leaders and teams who strive to be the best version of themselves.

Drawing on my background in the performing arts, coaching and accelerated learning, I create the conditions for individuals, teams and organisations to connect to themselves and each other to create the change and future they desire.

My work is intellectual, practical, human and exciting. My style is fun, challenging, inquisitive and caring.

I live on the south coast of the UK, am a dedicated husband and doting father of two boys and best friend to one scruffy mutt.

I once saw a UFO in the Australian outback... I'm not saying it was aliens, but it was very, very strange and unidentified... the truth is out there!

I've worked with....

- Jaguar Landrover
- Airbus
- Unilever
- Louis Vuitton
- Wolsely

Colleague View

Dan has very personable nature, he has the rare ability to connect immediately with a wide range of people of all ages and backgrounds and be in tune with their emotions making him someone you want to engage with.

Client View

'I worked with Dan over a period of time as a facilitator and coach on a leadership program. It was a great experience. He is warm, knowledgeable and very easy to communicate with. The acute attention and care he gave me and others was a catalyst for a transformation of perspectives which lead to the introduction of different mindsets and ways of working. It's a pleasure to recommend him!'

Head of Company Transformation at Airbus.
