

Guy Wilson

A bit about me

I can see a very natural progression in my career to date, but one thing is certain, it has been an interesting journey so far. After graduating (and managing nightclubs) I embarked on a career in the Police. This has meant that I have held a variety of management and senior management roles in some very demanding circumstances.

As well as the roles you would expect I have lead organisational culture change programs, developed corporate values, project managed structural change, developed performance frameworks and created high performing teams and departments. I also developed a breadth of experience across the fields of major crime investigation, professional standards and front line policing.

From my varied experience I identified that I have a passion for helping teams improve their performance and improving levels of employee engagement by reconnecting the management and staff. I now help companies to understand the views of their staff and identify the best way to motivate, deliver change or improve performance. And probably because of my previous career, I do this from a base of evidence so everything is done for a reason.

Guy loves a challenge! He rates one of his biggest achievements as running a 56 mile ultra marathon for charity. He doesn't give up until he achieves his goals!

A QUICK FACT

Professional Credentials

-  Degree in Sports Science (Sports psychology focused)
-  Police leadership & communications training (amongst countless other training courses)
-  Trained Senior Investigating Officer
-  Licensed to deliver the Competing Values Framework
-  CIPD Level 7 Award in Employee engagement
-  Licensed Practitioner – Lumina Spark
-  Professional Certificate in Coaching – Henley Business School

 Guy empowers staff, providing support where appropriate

Clients view →

“Guy is a highly skilled, professional expert who provides a great knowledgeable service, highly efficient processes, clear and honest time frames and project cost and more importantly fits around any organisational need and culture: as a result Guy advises a tailored engagement proposal that will make a real difference! An excellent service and hopefully a long term relationship has developed!” Aldi Stores Operations

Colleague view ↓

“Guy is a fantastic leader and ensures that people he works with are, and feel supported and are kept informed. Guy takes personal responsibility and manages several tasks very well. He is innovative in his thinking and always seeks to improve himself and his workstream.”